1	Q	Okay. And so this 55 percent is the big	16:52:10
2		difference; right?	16:52:14
3	A	Yes.	16:52:15
4	Q	And that's tax-free?	16:52:15
5	A	It is.	16:52:17
6	Q	And then what do you mean by you "only	16:52:19
7		work six months"?	16:52:21
8	A	It's a rotational assignment, so you go	16:52:22
9		for 28 days, and you come home for 28 days, then	16:52:24
10		you go back for 28 days --	16:52:28
11	Q	Okay.	16:52:30
12	A	-- and so --	16:52:32
13	Q	That ends up working six months out of	16:52:32
14		the year?	16:52:35
15	A	It's about six months.	16:52:35
16	Q	Okay. Anything else that would have	16:52:37
17		changed?	16:52:38
18	A	The Escravos position was a PSG 23, 24,	16:52:39
19		and Chevron has policies against keeping people	16:52:45
20		outside of the job's pay scale for, you know, six	16:52:49
21		months, six to 12 months. So usually after six	16:52:54
22		months, if you're moved into a job that has a	16:52:57
23		higher pay scale, they'll re-evaluate you, and	16:53:00
24		generally speaking they'll move you up to that	16:53:04
25		lower pay grade.	16:53:06

1 Q So -- and you were a PSG 22 at the time? 16:53:07

2 A That's correct. 16:53:10

3 Q And so after six months in Escravos you 16:53:11

4 might have been moved up to a PSG 23? 16:53:13

5 A Correct. 16:53:16

6 Q And do you know what the difference in 16:53:16

7 salary would have been? 16:53:17

8 A No. 16:53:17

9 Q Now, what was the assignment in terms of 16:53:26

10 term? Was it a one-year assignment? a three-year 16:53:32

11 assignment? a six-month assignment? 16:53:34

12 A A three- to four-"month" -- or three- to 16:53:38

13 four-year assignment. 16:53:41

14 Q And are you aware that the person who 16:53:43

15 eventually got that job was let go as part of the 16:53:46

16 reorganization? 16:53:49

17 A That wasn't what I was told. 16:53:50

18 Q Okay. What were you told? 16:53:52

19 A He quit. 16:53:54

20 Q What's his name? 16:53:58

21 A I don't know his name. They just told 16:54:00

22 me he quit. 16:54:01

23 Q Who told you he quit? 16:54:03

24 A Actually, I'm not sure I'm supposed to 16:54:07

25 say it. So we had mediation with the DFEH. 16:54:10

1	I suppose your PSG might have gone up,	17:00:09
2	but you would have gone back to essentially the	17:00:12
3	same salary with a slight bump?	17:00:16
4	MS. LEAL: Calls for speculation.	17:00:17
5	THE WITNESS: If I had come back to the	17:00:18
6	U.S.	17:00:20
7	BY MR. MUSSIG:	17:00:20
8	Q Did you have plans to stay in Escravos	17:00:22
9	indefinitely?	17:00:24
10	A I had plans to stay in an overseas	17:00:25
11	position for 11 years.	17:00:29
12	Q And why 11 years?	17:00:32
13	A My son was in private school that I	17:00:33
14	wanted to pay for through high school, so two	17:00:38
15	years of junior high, four years of high school,	17:00:40
16	and saving money for college. And that's three	17:00:43
17	rotations with an average of three and a half	17:00:53
18	years-ish.	17:00:56
19	Q But no guarantee you would have gotten	17:01:01
20	the -- the assignment again; right?	17:01:04
21	A No.	17:01:06
22	Q "No," that's not right, or, "yes,"	17:01:08
23	that's right?	17:01:09
24	A No, there's no guarantee.	17:01:09
25	Q Did you remain a PSG 22 for the rest of	17:01:12

1 your time at Chevron? 17:01:26

2 A I did. 17:01:26

3 Q Do you know what percentage of Chevron 17:01:30

4 employees are promoted to PSG 23? Do you have any 17:01:32

5 estimate? 17:01:35

6 A I do not. 17:01:36

7 Q Are you aware -- maybe you're not -- 17:01:38

8 that promotions become harder as you advance up 17:01:41

9 the PS -- pay salary grade scale? 17:01:44

10 A I am aware of that. 17:01:47

11 Q And would you agree that just because an 17:01:51

12 employee at PSG 22 receives performance ratings of 17:01:54

13 meets expectations doesn't mean he'll eventually 17:01:58

14 receive a promotion to PSG 23? 17:02:02

15 MS. LEAL: Calls for speculation. 17:02:04

16 THE WITNESS: It is my understanding 17:02:06

17 that that's true, but I don't know that that's 17:02:06

18 always true. 17:02:09

19 BY MR. MUSSIG: 17:02:10

20 Q Did anyone tell you that you were going 17:02:11

21 to advance to PSG "3" in the REM position in 17:02:12

22 Escravos? 17:02:16

23 A I don't recall. 17:02:17

24 Q Would you agree that, as a result of the 17:02:41

25 COVID-19 pandemic, advancement opportunities at 17:02:45

DEPONENT	EXAMINED BY	PAGE
CHARLES L. BAUM, Ph.D.	MS. KENNEDY	5

EXHIBITS FOR IDENTIFICATION

1	Expert Report of Charles L. Baum, Ph.D.	7
---	---	---

1 opinion that under Scenario No. 1 that Mr. Snookal's
2 economic loss is $2,714,283?

3 A Yes. This is the difference in the projected
4 compensation stream for Mr. Snookal if he had remained at
5 Chevron with the promotion to the position in Nigeria and 09:57
6 Mr. Snookal's projected and actual earnings from 7 replacement employment.

8 Q So for the promotion in Nigeria how long -- or 9 strike that.

10 For the promotion in Nigeria how long did you 09:57
11 assume or use as part of your calculation that he would be 12 in Nigeria in that position?

13 A My economic loss calculations remain to the end
14 of his worklife expectancy, although I do adjust them in 15 future years for the likelihood he would have remained 09:57
16 employed for Chevron.

17 So I'm not assuming that he would have remained
18 employed for Chevron until retirement with 100 percent
19 certainty. I recognize that there's a chance in the 20 future that he would have gone to work for somebody else, 09:58
21 but I considered economic losses to the end of his 22 worklife expectancy.

23 Now, I realize that the position in Nigeria had a
24 time limit, but in my calculations I assumed that at the 25 end of that time limit one of several things would have 09:58

1 occurred.

2 He would have been renewed in this position in
3 Nigeria or he would have gone to a position in another
4 country or he would have maintained some position at 5 Chevron where his compensation would have been at that 6 level.

09:58

7 Maybe that involves him staying in the position
8 in Nigeria, but it also could involve him moving to 9 another position with comparable compensation.

10 Q Were you provided any information as to how long
11 this person who actually got the job in Nigeria actually
12 held on to that job or stayed in that position?

09:58

13 A I was not provided any information on that at the 14 time I wrote my report, no.

15 Q Did you take into account in looking at the 16 economic -- past economic losses take into account COVID
17 as a mitigating factor in economic damages, in losses,
18 longevity, and his position in Nigeria?

09:59

19 A No.

20 Q In looking at your report, looking at the tables,
21 where would I find sort of the cumulative economic -- past
22 economic losses for Mr. Snookal?

09:59

23 A Sure. If you go in my report to the tables, and
24 let's go to Table No. 1, which corresponds to Scenario
25 No. 1, I provide a running cumulative total through each

09:59

CASE NO.: 2-23-cv-6302

EXPERT REPORT OF CHARLES L. BAUM, PH.D.

August 16, 2024

ECONOMIC LOSS APPRAISAL IN THE CASE OF MARK SNOOKAL

1. I am Charles L. Baum II, Ph.D., a professor of economics and finance at Middle Tennessee State University. I have a Ph.D. in economics from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a B.A. in political science and a B.A. in economics from Wake Forest University. My full curriculum vita is provided as Exhibit A. Neither I nor my opinions represent Middle Tennessee State University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, or Wake Forest University in this matter. I generate this report on behalf of Baum Economics LLC.

2. I have been asked to provide an analysis of the lost earnings and lost employment benefits for Mark Snookal (Mr. Snookal) due to the rescission of a position in Nigeria by Chevron USA, Inc. (Chevron) in or around August 2019 and a subsequent employment termination from Chevron in or around September 2021.
3. In return for this report, I am compensated at a rate of $275 per hour by the plaintiff.
4. I am not asked to provide, nor do I plan to provide, an expert opinion on liability, legal issues, or the law. I attempt to follow guidance provided by case law in my calculations.
5. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal was born April 13, 1972, is a high school graduate, and lived in Los Angeles (Los Angeles County), California, with his wife, Constance (born July 24, 1972), and son, Benjamin (born September 5, 2006).
6. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal was hired by Chevron on January 12, 2009 as an analyzer designs engineer in the technical services department at the El Segundo refinery (designing and engineering functions for the installation of analyzer systems) and was promoted in 2011 to maintenance supervisor in the analyzer and digital group (creating and implementing three-year plans for needed changes and to improve performance), in 2013 to analyzer reliability improvement champion in the technical services department (developing and implementing the analyzer reliability program for the entire El Segundo facility), and in 2016 to instrumentation, electrical, and analyzer reliability team lead in the reliability department (leading a team responsible for inspecting, testing, and maintaining instrumentation and electrical and analyzer assets).
7. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal in 2019 applied for the position of reliability engineer manager (REM) in Nigeria, which would have had a grade-22 salary with a promotion to a grade-23 salary after no more than 6 months, and Chevron offered Mr. Snookal this position, to begin August 1, 2019.
8. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal, as part of the process of being transferred to Nigeria, was required to undergo a medical screening, and after this screening, Chevron deemed Mr. Snookal unfit for duty (due at least partly to cardiology issues) and rescinded the job offer without attempting to make reasonable accommodations.
9. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal later applied for three additional job openings at Chevron (i.e., operating assistant, general team lead, and maintenance change operating assistant) that would have constituted promotions, but these positions were offered to younger workers.

10. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal was demoted by Chevron (to reliability change operating assistant, a non-supervisory position), which resulted in depression, and he was essentially forced to resign (i.e., was constructively discharged) in September 2021.
11. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal believes his employment termination from Chevron constitutes a failure to accommodate a disability and is discriminatory, wrongful, and in violation of California statutes and public policy.
12. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal just prior to leaving Chevron diligently searched for replacement employment in good faith and found another job working for Nippon Dynawave Packaging Co. as a maintenance superintendent from September 2021 to September 2023 and for Georgia Pacific beginning September 2023, where he remains currently employed.
13. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal had taxable income of $179,475 in 2021, $143,145 in 2022, and $179,623 in 2023.
14. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal earned from Chevron in 2018 base pay equal to $136,100 plus $22,800 in company, unit, and individual performance incentives (or bonuses) (for a total of $158,900 in wage and salary income, with performance incentives equal to 16.75 percent of base pay) with employee medical insurance contributions of $4,560, employee dental insurance contributions of $180 and $120, employee vision insurance contributions of $337, employer pension contributions of $20,629, and employer ESIP benefits of $12,612.
15. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal with an assignment to Nigeria would have received a base salary of $141,100 per year with company, unit, and individual performance incentives (or bonuses), additional pay for unused vacation days, a location premium (a base-pay adjustment factor of 55 percent), tax equalization payments on the location premium, and a travel allowance (with employment benefits calculated on base salary, not including the location premium or travel allowance). Mr. Snookal would have received the pay increase to $141,100 per year with company, unit, and individual performance incentives in 2019 with or without the assignment to Nigeria.
16. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal had earnings from Chevron of $161,243.36 in 2019 and $155,628.57 in 2020 with health insurance benefits, pension benefits, and employer ESIP contributions equal to up to 8 percent of earnings.

17. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal's pension benefits through Chevron would have equaled 11 percent of highest average-five earnings multiplied by years of service up to age 60 plus 14 percent of highest average-five earnings multiplied by years of service beyond age 60 as a lump sum with retirement between the ages of 60 and 65.
18. According to documents I have reviewed, Mr. Snookal received a base salary of $150,000 per year from Nippon Dynawave Packaging Company (in year-2021 dollars), with the ability to earn a bonus targeted to be 20 percent of earnings, health insurance benefits, and retirement benefits equal to 3 to 4 percent of earnings.
19. It is my understanding Mr. Snookal receives a base salary of $180,000 per year from Georgia Pacific (in year-2024 dollars), with the ability to earn a bonus targeted to be 2 to 3 percent of earnings, health insurance benefits, and retirement benefits equal to up to 8.5 to 10.5 percent of earnings.
20. In this analysis, based on the assumption that paragraphs 5-19 are true, I calculate the economic losses to Mr. Snookal in the form of lost earnings and lost employment benefits due to the rescission of a position in Nigeria by Chevron and an employment termination from Chevron.
21. The present value of the economic losses to Mr. Snookal is calculated to range from $2,714,283 (from the employment termination and the position rescission but no promotion to a grade-23 salary) to $3,477,885 (from the employment termination and the rescission of the position in Nigeria with the promotion to a grade-23 salary).
22. The case-related documents used to prepare this analysis are listed in Exhibit B and other references are listed in Exhibit C.
23. Federal courts in Ninth Circuit employment cases allow recovery for lost earnings as part of the process of making the injured party whole (Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody, 422 U.S. 405, 418, 95 S.Ct. 2362, 2372, 45 L.Ed.2d 280 (1975)). Lost pay from the time of the discrimination to the trial (back pay) and after the trial (front pay) are both recoverable (Thorne v. City of El Segundo, 802 F.2d 1131, 1136 (9th Cir.1986); Cassino v. Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., 817 F.2d 1338, 1346 (9th Cir.1987); Baum, 2021).

24. Lost employment benefits, such as insurance and retirement benefits, are recoverable in Ninth Circuit employment cases (Cassino v. Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., 817 F.2d 1338, 1348 (9th Cir.1987); Kelly v. Am. Standard, Inc., 640 F.2d 974, 985 (9th Cir.1981)). The pecuniary value for employee benefits is typically measured by the actual cost to employers (Galindo v. Stooddy, 793 F.2d 1502, 1517 (9th Cir.1986)). Health and life insurance in the Ninth Circuit are valued differently—as out-of-pocket replacement costs incurred by the terminated plaintiff, rather than the cost of the premiums to the terminating employer (E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co., 31 F.3d 891, 902 (9th Cir.1994)). If the terminated worker did not replace the lost health insurance, then the medical costs while uninsured that would have been paid by the defendant’s insurance plan may be awarded as damages as well.
25. The economic loss is the present value of the difference in Mr. Snookal’s projected earnings and employment benefits at Chevron absent Chevron’s rescission of the position in Nigeria and his employment termination minus his actual and projected earnings and employment benefits from Chevron and replacement employment.
26. A projected trial date of February 4, 2025 date of is used to develop a calculation of the economic losses.
27. The first part of the calculation is the loss from the pre-trial period, which is August 1, 2019 (the date of Chevron’s rescission of the position in Nigeria) through February 4, 2025. The second part is the loss from the post-trial period from February 5, 2025 through February 23, 2035, which is the period represented by Mr. Snookal’s remaining worklife expectancy (13.47 years) from the time of his employment termination (Skoog, Ciecka, and Krueger, 2019). Worklife expectancies are derived from Markov increment-decrement models, which are based on survival probabilities calculated using the U.S. Life Tables and employment transition probabilities calculated with Current Population Survey (CPS) data.
28. In a first scenario, shown in Table 1, I assume Mr. Snookal absent his employment termination is transferred to a position in Nigeria with a location premium of 55 percent by August 1, 2019 (but that he is not then promoted to a grade-23 salary position). I project Mr. Snookal absent his employment termination from Chevron would have continued earning $161,243.36 per year (in year-2019 dollars), which equals Mr. Snookal’s earnings from Chevron in 2019, the last full calendar year before his employment termination. Mr. Snookal’s base pay of $141,100 with company, unit, and individual performance incentives equal to 16.75 percent of base pay is $164,734 per year.

29. Mr. Snookal's future earnings are assumed to grow over time with price inflation and productivity (Becker, 1975; Ben-Porath, 1967; Gilbert, 1997). Wages tend to increase over time with prices to maintain purchasing power, and wages tend to increase over time as workers become more productive with the newest and latest technologies. Workers also become more productive over their careers as they acquire work experience and learn new skills on the job.
30. I project future wage inflation using a rate of 3.33 percent per year. Over the past 10 years, the average annual growth rate in weekly earnings for production and nonsupervisory employees in the private sector in the Current Employment Statistics (CES), in the wages and salaries of all civilian workers in the Employment Cost Index (ECI), and in wages for covered workers reported by the Social Security Administration (SSA) has been 3.63 percent, and over the past 20 years, the average rate of annual wage growth in CES, ECI, and SSA data has been 3.13 percent (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2024a, 2024b). The Congressional Budget Office forecasts wage growth for civilian workers of 3.00 percent per year in 10 years, and the Social Security Advisory Board predicts long-term wage growth for covered workers of 3.56 percent annually (Congressional Budget Office, 2024; Social Security Trustees Report, 2024).
31. I include the value of lost employment benefits in the economic loss calculations.
32. I include the value of supplemental pay for 25 unused vacation days (multiplied by a factor of 1.4, as per Chevron policy) and the value of tax equalization benefits on the location premium (valued at 13.53 percent of the location premium or 7.44 percent of base pay, according to Chevron's remuneration report for Mr. Snookal).
33. I project Mr. Snookal absent his employment termination would have continued receiving employer ESIP contributions equal to 8 percent of earnings.
34. I project Mr. Snookal, absent his employment termination, would have continued receiving government-mandated employment benefits. Government-mandated employment benefits equal the employer-paid portion of the payroll tax (OASDI), which is 6.2 percent of earnings up to the Social Security wage base, which is $137,700 for 2020, $142,800 for 2021, $147,000 for 2022, $160,200 for 2023, and $168,600 for 2024 for the Social Security's Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance program (Social Security Administration, 2024a). The 1.45 percent payroll tax for Medicare is not included in the economic losses. Future Social Security wages bases are assumed to increase at the rate of price inflation.

35. Future price inflation is projected to be 2.50 percent per year. Over the past 10 years, the average rate of annual price inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, has been 2.74 percent, and over the past 20 years, it has been 2.57 percent per year (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2024c). The Congressional Budget Office forecasts price inflation of 2.30 percent annually in 10 years, and the Social Security Advisory Board predicts long-term price inflation of 2.40 percent per year (Congressional Budget Office, 2024; Social Security Trustees Report, 2024).
36. I deduct from the economic losses Mr. Snookal's actual and projected earnings and the value of employment benefits from Chevron (without a transfer to a position in Nigeria) and replacement employment. This equals $161,243.36 in 2019, $155,628.57 in 2020, $179,475 in 2021, $143,145 in 2022, and $179,623 in 2023, with Chevron ESIP benefits equal to 8 percent of earnings from Chevron, employer-matching retirement contributions equal to 4 percent of earnings from Nippon Dynawave Packaging Co., and employer-matching retirement contributions equal to 9.5 percent of earnings from Georgia Pacific and with employer Social Security contributions from all employers equal to 6.2 percent of earnings up to the Social Security wage base, described above. Thereafter, I project Mr. Snookal earns $180,000 per year (in year-2023 dollars) from Georgia Pacific with a 3 percent bonus. As before, I project Mr. Snookal's earnings to increase at the rate of wage growth, described above.
37. Throughout the analysis, losses are adjusted for the annual probability Mr. Snookal would have remained employed by Chevron in each future year of the analysis (see estimation procedures in Baum, 2013). These annual probabilities are calculated using regression model parameters estimated with data collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics through the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth. These estimates are adjusted for and are specific to Mr. Snookal's gender, age, education level, wage rate, occupation, and tenure with the defendants and are adjusted for economic conditions. Shown in the Tables is the yearly survival probability for the period from 2025 throughout the analysis with Chevron. The survival probability is derived from annual hazard rates. The hazard rate is the conditional probability Mr. Snookal's employment for the defendant would have ended in a particular year. The survivor rate is the cumulative of the hazard rates and is the probability Mr. Snookal would have remained employed for the defendant for a particular duration given his tenure.
38. I project Mr. Snookal absent his employment termination would have received a lump sum pension benefit from Chevron upon retirement at the end of his worklife expectancy equal to $764,191, based on a high average-five earnings of $263,002 and 25.74 years of service.

39. I deduct from the economic losses the lump-sum pension benefit from Chevron Mr. Snookal will receive with his employment termination at the end of his worklife expectancy, which equals $210,227, based on a high average-five earnings of $151,251 and 12.64 years of service.
40. I assume Mr. Snookal receives comparable medical, dental, and vision insurance benefits from Chevron and replacement employment.
41. Future economic losses should be discounted to present cash value in federal employment cases (Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. v. Pfeifer, 462 U.S. 523, 533 (1983)). This is because an amount of money paid today if invested can grow over time with interest. The present value of a future loss is the amount today needed to equal that future sum with growth from investment interest. The U.S. Supreme Court has determined the rate of interest used for present-value discounting should be that on “the best and safest investments.” The Ninth Circuit does not specify a rate for present-value discounting, and several approaches may be used (Gauthier v. Eastern Oregon Correctional Institution, 2006 WL 2728957, at *4 (D.Ore.2006)).
42. Future dollar values are discounted to present value using a rate of 3.41 percent. Over the past 10 years, the average interest rate on 1-year treasury bills, 10-year treasury notes, and 20-year treasury bonds has been 2.17 percent, and over the past 20 years, the average interest rate on 1-year treasury bills, 10-year treasury notes, and 20-year treasury bonds has been 2.66 percent (Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 2024). The Congressional Budget Office forecasts interest rates on 10-year treasury notes to be 4.10 percent in 10 years, and the Social Security Advisory Board predicts long-term interest rates on a mix of treasury securities to be 4.70 percent (Congressional Budget Office, 2024; Social Security Trustees Report, 2024).
43. Just as a lump sum paid today can grow when invested with interest to a larger amount in the future—which motivates present value discounting of future losses—past losses could have grown to a larger amount today if invested with interest. The economic theory of the time value of money suggests past losses should be increased due to the ability to earn interest (just as future losses should be reduced to present value due to the ability to earn interest, discussed below). Pre-judgment interest makes wronged plaintiffs whole by reimbursing for the lost use of funds.
44. Courts in the Ninth Circuit have the discretion to include pre-judgment interest in the economic losses (Domingo v. New England Fish Co., 727 F.2d 1429, 1446 (9th Cir.1984)). The court in the Ninth Circuit also retains discretion over the rate to use for pre-judgment interest (W. Pac. Fisheries, Inv. v. SS President Grant, 730 F.2d 1280, 1288 (9th Cir.1984)). Although different interest rates have been used (including state statutory rates and the IRS rates in 26 U.S.C. § 6621), the federal post-judgment rate specified in 28 U.S.C. § 1961—the rate on 52-week treasury bills—is preferred for pre-judgment interest in the Ninth Circuit (Blankenship v. Liberty Life Assur. Co. of Boston, 486 F.3d 620, 628 (9th Cir.2007)).

45. Presented in Table 1, the present value of the economic losses from lost earnings and lost employment benefits for Mr. Snookal is calculated to be $2,714,283.
46. In a second scenario, shown in Table 2, I assume Mr. Snookal absent his employment termination is transferred to a position in Nigeria with a location premium of 55 percent by August 1, 2019, and he is then promoted to a grade-23 salary position by January 1, 2020, with Mr. Snookal receiving 85 percent of a 16 percent increase in grade pay. Employment and pension benefits are adjusted accordingly. As before, in this scenario, I include the value of supplemental pay for 25 unused vacation days (multiplied by a factor of 1.4, as per Chevron policy) and the value of tax equalization benefits on the location premium (valued at 13.53 percent of the location premium or 7.44 percent of base pay, according to Chevron's remuneration report for Mr. Snookal). Otherwise, I use the same methodology and make the same assumptions as in my first scenario. In this second scenario, the present value of the economic losses from lost earnings and employment benefits for Mr. Snookal is calculated to be $3,477,885.
47. Given the documents and information provided by Mr. Snookal and his attorneys and given the applicable economic information available for the analysis, I believe these calculations and this analysis to be reasonable and reflective of the economic circumstances of this case.

48. I reserve the right to revise this report if or when additional information becomes available.
